

S-384
Harry C. Dashiell House
Princess Anne private

c. 1900-1910

The Harry C. Dashiell house is a well preserved turn of the century tee-plan frame dwelling trimmed with modest Victorian features limited mainly to the turned post front porch. The house contributes to the mixture of late Federal and Victorian dwellings that mark this eastern residential district of the town.

Harry C. Dashiell purchased this Beechwood Street lot in 1919 from Anna L. Haines, and the associated plat of the property locates the edge of the frame house (WJS 78/492). Harry C. and Emily Dashiell occupied the house for the next thirty-five years, and in 1934 the Dashiells sold the property to Gordon Tull (WJS 86/269). Item eight in Gordon Tull's will of 1944 transferred ownership of the house and lot to his nieces, Eva Tull Mills and Doris Tull.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Harry C. Dashiell house (also called the Gordon Tull house) stands at 48 Beechwood Street in the center of Princess Anne, Somerset County, Maryland. The two-story tee-plan frame house faces east with the principal gable oriented on a north/south axis.

Supported by a minimal brick foundation, the two-story turn of the century house is clad in weatherboard siding, and it is covered by a wood shingle roof. Two interior brick chimneys rise from the center sections of the house.

The east (main) elevation is an asymmetrical three-bay elevation with a projecting north bay and a recessed entrance. The six-panel door is flanked by two-over-two sash windows with louvered shutters. The entrance bay and adjacent window are covered by a hip roof front porch that is supported by turned porch posts with a sawn baluster handrail and decorative corner brackets. Lighting the second floor are two two-over two sash windows. The projecting two-story bay to the north is pierced on each floor by two-over-two sash windows, and the bay is covered by a hip roof.

The south gable end is distinguished by a three-sided bay window that is covered by a pedimented gable end. The first floor is lighted by three two-over-two sash windows, while the second floor has three twelve-over-one sash windows. A single two-over-two sash window lights the attic. The undersides of the gable are trimmed with simple Victorian sawnwork.

The west (back) side of the house is largely covered by a two-story service wing finished in similar detail as the main house.

The interior was not seen.
